Community health centers left in limbo as funding deadline looms

By Steven Ross Johnson | September 21, 2017

The financial uncertainty that often comes with working in healthcare is nothing new to Joan Quigley, a 30-year veteran hospital administrator who is currently president and CEO of North Hudson

Why us?

- Congress has yet to re-authorize funding.
- Represents $3 million of annual budget of $32.
- Result in cutting hours of operations or closing down NHCAC.
- Loss of 51k health center jobs and as many as 9 million patients.
